

Wrestling News

Reports suggest there was an intense argument between the WWE supremo and Lesnar who had just retained the Universal Championship against Roman Reigns at the main event.

Vince was reportedly angry because The Beast busted Reigns open with a series of elbows to the head - superstars are no longer allowed to bleed in WWE matches.

The WWE owner also wasn't pleased with Lesnar throwing his opponent on the German announce desk where the commentators were not aware that it would be used for a spot.

Rumours suggest the five-time world champion got so angry he threw the belt towards the WWE Chairman and CEO.

According to Ringside News, the publisher and editor of the Wrestling Observer Newsletter Dave Meltzer claims that Shane then got involved in the row and acted like he wanted to fight Lesnar.

Meltzer said: "He threw the belt against the wall at Vince McMahon and he was unhappy.

"The reasons he was unhappy, I don't know what they were but he was.

"And Shane McMahon jumped in and kinda wanted to - I don't know if he wanted to fight Brock Lesnar but he acted like he wanted to fight Brock Lesnar.

"As far as Shane goes, as far as the belt throw... For all we know this could be all be a work. Nobody really knows.

"I mean, the people who were there did not think it was a work but they also know that they were all worked on the finish."

Lesnar was rumoured to be on his way back to UFC after Mania but ultimately signed a new deal with WWE.

Wrestling News

With WrestleMania 34 having come and gone now, we aim towards what is essentially a new year in WWE. Well, that new year got kicked off with a bang on Monday with some huge news regarding the status of the "Beast Incarnate." What the universal champ may be allowed to do going forward is where we begin our look at some of the biggest WWE headlines for Tuesday, April 10.

Brock Lesnar could still have a UFC run

Current WWE universal champion Brock Lesnar is sticking around with the company. On Monday, just one day after he shockingly defended his title against Roman Reigns successfully in the main event of WrestleMania 34, WWE issued a release announcing that Lesnar had signed a new deal with the company, and he will be defending that title once again against Reigns on April 27 in Saudi Arabia on the "Greatest Royal Rumble" card. At the time of the announcement, details on Lesnar's new deal were scarce. But, those details may be coming to light as this all begins to unfold.

Brock Lesnar is now set to defend the Universal Championship against Reigns in a Steel Cage Match at the Greatest Royal Rumble in Saudi Arabia on April 27.

Answer the questions below.

What is the Author's Purpose for this article? Explain your thinking.

How do we know Brock Lesnar is going to stay in the WWE?

What does the word "scarce" mean?