

Figurative Language:

Find the Hyperbole

A hyperbole is an extreme exaggeration. An example of this is the sentence “My books weigh a ton.” The books could not weigh a ton, but the exaggeration makes a more interesting sentence than merely saying “My books were heavy.”

Read each sentence below. If the sentence contains a hyperbole, write “hyperbole” in the blank. If it does not have one, write “none” in the blank.

- 1) I'm so hungry I could eat a whole elephant! _____
- 2) May is the nicest month of the year. _____
- 3) Her brightly colored dress hurt his eyes. _____
- 4) Larry was such a big baby that this parents had to use bed sheets for diapers. _____
- 5) I ate all of my salad for lunch. _____
- 6) As I approached the horse, it seemed larger than it had in the pasture. _____
- 7) The roof rose up and down to the rhythm of the loud music. _____
- 8) We thought the apple pie was the best kind of dessert for the party. _____
- 9) The dog was so dirty that it had a tomato plant growing on its back. _____
- 10) There were a million replies that popped into her head. _____