

One day my friend and I walked to the store to pick up some cards. Jake and I have been friends for years. We met in first grade and we haven't looked back since. If one of us got into a fight, the other was there.

After picking out the newest cards we wanted, we noticed it was getting late. It was almost dark when we got out of the store. It was almost pitch black because of storm clouds. We decided to walk through the alley. We saw a group of people they asked us to smash windows. I looked at Jake. Then we look at the group of people.

The biggest kid said, "Well are you going to do it you wimps?"

"ARE YOU CRAZY WHY DON'T YOU DO IT" I said.

"You shouldn't have said that" Jake said.

We started running as fast as we could. Jake decided to take my mom's car. "Why don't you drive" said Jake. We hit the accelerator and went flying off. I was rolling towards Jake. He went to brake but nothing happened.

"The brakes went out. Don't panic, just tell Ahhhhh"! We went to the right, there were two boys on a moped that we accidentally smashed into and they went flying off.

"Sorry, I yelled as they started to get up"

Then Jake the car ran into a dumpster. Someone comes up behind us to see if we're ok. When Jake was out of the car, he realized it was one of the kids chasing him. Jake suddenly felt something hard hit his head before hitting the ground. Jake got knocked out and woke up in an old abandon shed.

When Jake woke up, he notice that he was tied up into a chair and so was I. That's when we saw a man named Edward. Edward untied Jake and then he untied me. He told us to run away. I was looking for Jake and then I found him walking on the road. I picked up Jake but then we ran out of gas. "Let's go get some gas now we still have 35 dollars left" said Jake.

"How hard did you get hit in the head We have a whole group of people coming after us and plus were just kids we can't be driving a car if anyone knew they will call the police" I said. "we are just going have to walk"

We started walking around trying to hide from the group of people. We went so far until I caught a view of them. We could see them but they didn't see us. As we inched our way closer, we could hear them talking about something. We peeked around the corner and they were talking about Jake and I. "I'm a bit scared" said Jake. "it will be ok just don't worry" I said. "Ok" said Jake. The group of people saw us I have never ran so fast in my life. They were so close to us. We found a hiding spot. "oh thank goodness we made it" Jake said. They found us again. "what do you want from us what did we do to have you hurt us" I said. "you didn't do what I wanted you to do" said the group of people. "what are you called any way" said Jake. "THE BLACK BANDIT" Said one person from the black bandit. We were right next to the house that we were going to smash the window at. I was about to throw the brick but I aimed but missed on purpose. They went to pick up the brick but we ran again. They chased us but we ran home and called the police. The police didn't believe us so we just stayed home. Next day I woke up and so did Jake we wanted to go to the park so we did. The black ran after us again the a police past us and asked the black bandit what they were doing. "trying to kidnap us" I said. "is this true" the police. "yes sorry we did that" the bandit responded. "sorry dose not cut it boys" said the police. Jake and I were playing at the park and we found a new friend named Marcus we played all day long. Next morning we watched the news and it showed the black bandit on the news thank goodness that they caught the black bandit. "hey I only see 5 people there is suppose to be 6" said Jake. Right after Jake said that, the man from the news said that one person from the black bandit ran away. "oh no lets just stay in side for the day" I said. "will you go get the mail for me" said my mom. "I'm not going to take that risk until that person gets back in jail" I said "ok then" said mom.