

Tying Beginnings to Endings (Yo-Yoing)

Beginning	Middle	End
Intense Action - _____ _____ I was revving the engine to my new scooter as I was waving furiously at my friends. Off I went around my first corner picking up speed.	Crash	Intense Action My Knees throbbed. My elbows burned. I jumped up on my bike as I saw a car turning on the road. I quickly hopped back on my scooter and fought back tears as I rode home.
Sensory Description - _____ _____ My shiny new scooter sparkles as it reflects the sunlight. The black pleather seat feels warm as I hike myself up to sit on it. I smell the fresh mowed grass and hear my friends chattering as I start to ride around the corner	Crash	Sensory Description The sunlight now reflected on the bright red blood that was splattered on my knee, leg, and the pavement. I noticed a white scratch mark on my once shiny silver scooter.
Intriguing Questions - _____ _____ _____ Did you ever get a new bike or scooter and couldn't wait to show it off to you friends? I did when I got my new electric scooter.	Crash	Intriguing Questions Have you ever been in intense pain and felt embarrassed at the same time like I had that day?

Onomatopoeia - _____ _____ TINK, TINK! As I begin to accelerate on my new scooter, tiny pebbles begin to fly up and hit the back bumper.	Crash	Onomatopoeia oooooooohhh! I moan in pain as I push my scooter off of me.
Feeling - _____ _____ What a great day for a scooter ride! The sun is out. And there is a slow wind. Perfect for a ride on my scooter.	Crash	Feeling It went all wrong. All I wanted to do now was throw my scooter in the garage and forget this ever happened.
