Comic Book Shop Search

Characters

AUNT MARIA MATEO ETHAN: a friend

AUNT MARIA: The GPS on my phone says the comic book shop is two blocks away.

MATEO: I can't wait to see it!

ETHAN: Me, too! Thanks for bringing me along on this trip, Mrs. Hernandez.

AUNT MARIA: You're welcome. [stopping at an intersection and looking at her phone] Mateo said you would like to join us. Let's cross with the walk sign.

[After crossing the street, they stop because of road construction.]

MATEO: Aunt Maria, the sign says the road is closed to traffic.

AUNT MARIA: [deep in thought] The sidewalk is all torn up; so we can't walk on it. Let's backtrack to Main Street and get our bearings. My phone has a map, too, but my battery is running low.

MATEO: I don't understand how we'll find our way without your phone.

ETHAN: I have a regular street map.

AUNT MARIA: [looking happily surprised] Wonderful, Ethan! What made you think of that?

ETHAN: My mom thinks everyone should have maps with them. I hate to admit it, but she's been right many times, so I bring one when I go somewhere new.

MATEO: I'm glad for your old-time ways, amigo! [They stop to read the map.]

AUNT MARIA: If we cut through this side street, the shop will be on the right.

[Following the paper map, they reach the comic book shop.]

MATEO: We're here! I would have never thought having a paper map was a good idea before, but it really works!

Characters ALLISON DAD

ALLISON: I just finished mixing the crystal solution—I did just what the kit said.

[Allison's dad finishes drying dishes. He walks to the table where Allison stares at the petri dish with the crystal solution.]

DAD: Good job, Ally. Are you just going to sit there and look at the petri dish?

ALLISON: Yes, I think so.

DAD: You know a watched pot never boils. Besides, I need you to vacuum the living room and finish straightening your bedroom.

ALLISON: [standing, but keeping her eyes on the crystal solution] OK. Where are you going?

DAD: I need to finish trimming that one tree in the backyard. Be right back.

ALLISON: [walking toward the living room] I'd rather trim the tree than clean my room.

DAD: [smiling] The grass is always greener on the other side.

[After vacuuming, Allison checks the petri dish, then cleans her bedroom. She returns to the kitchen and looks at the dish; she crinkles her brow. Dad enters from the back door.]

DAD: What's wrong, Ally?

ALLISON: It hasn't changed at all. I thought I read the crystals start to form immediately.

DAD: Let's look at the box again. [reaching for the instructions and reading] It says it takes at least twelve hours for the crystal to form. The solution changes color immediately.

ALLISON: The color did change right away, from clear to blue.

DAD: Try to leave it alone and check it in the morning.

[The lights dim and then come on again to signify the passing day. Allison enters the kitchen. A beautiful blue crystal stands in the petri dish.]
